By Samuel M. Williams

(Special Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.) WASHINGTON, March 30 .- Paying no attention to the latest utterance of the German Chancellor, the United States Government to-day continued active preparations to protect its rights and enforce its demands

As the Cabinet met with President Wilson for the last time before the assertbling of Congress, the consensus of opinion was that the United States was about to actively enter into war with Germany.

Nothing short of absolute abandonment by Germany of ruthless submarine warfare and a guaranteed return to methods prevailing before Feb. 1 will cause this Government to swerve in the least degree from its present straight course that is leading swiftly on to a state of actual warfare.

That is the attitude of the Administration, as expressed to-day informally by Secretary of State Lansing, although there will be no official
